Basic Information
Position Title
Instructional Professor (open rank) in Chemistry

Position Type
OAA - Lecturer/Senior Lecturer

Position Description
The University of Chicago invites applications for the position of Instructional Professor (open rank) in the Department of Chemistry. The selected candidate will be appointed as Assistant Instructional Professor or Associate Instructional Professor. Rank and length of initial term depend on qualifications. This is a career-track position with potential progression, competitive salary, and benefits.

The terms and conditions of employment for this position are covered by a collective bargaining agreement between the Service Employees International Union (SEIU) and the University.

The Department of Chemistry is looking to continue its programmatic and educational excellence in preparing undergraduate students for careers and future study in the chemical sciences. Initial instructional responsibilities include teaching courses at the general chemistry level as well as for our advanced physical chemistry courses. In addition, it is envisioned that in the future the successful candidate for this role will also be asked to propose and design course materials for additional courses not part of this initial assignment. Additional duties also include contributions to the effective functioning of departmental programs of instruction, including program development and/or coordination of our general and physical chemistry sequences. Time is allocated for professional development.

Qualifications
A Ph.D. in Chemistry or a closely related field as well as at least one year experience teaching in a selective college or university as an instructor of record.

Preference will be given to candidates whose training and experience make them qualified to teach undergraduate courses and develop course materials in one or more of the following areas: general chemistry and experimental physical chemistry.

Application Instructions
A complete application consists of (1) curriculum vitae, (2) statement of teaching philosophy, including a history of courses taught, (3) three or more letters of reference, at least two of which should address teaching ability.

Optional: we encourage submission of additional materials that speak to teaching experience and ability, particularly copies of teaching evaluations. We also welcome materials on relevant experience with developing and managing a program of instruction, program development and/or coordination, syllabi and pedagogy development, and organizing educational conferences and workshops.
Applications must be submitted online through the University of Chicago’s Academic Jobs website: http://apply.interfolio.com/83511. Review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University’s Statements on Diversity are at https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.